2012 Racing Season Ends in Saskatoon, New CPPRA President

posted Aug 27, 2012 7:21 PM by CPPRA Administrator [updated Aug 27, 2012 7:44 PM]

Many thanks to the Hub City Radio Control Club for hosting their annual pylon race on August 25-26, 2012. Although Quickie 500 racing was cancelled due to poor weather, Q40 got 6 rounds of racing in before calling it complete. Thanks to all the HCRCC volunteers and special thanks to the Moldenhauer family for putting on the great pancake breakfast. See the Q40 results for the details of the race.

Congratulations to Jeff Martin, who graciously accepted the nomination to be the CPPRA President in 2013. Thanks Jeff!

Phoenix Q40 Classic 2012

posted Mar 1, 2012 4:53 PM by Kevin Umbach [updated Mar 15, 2012 7:44 AM]

A large group of Canadians attended the Phoenix Q40 Classic event in Phoenix, Arizona, February 25-26, 2012. With 80 pilots from 8 countries registered, the interest in Q40 appears to be strong; this was the largest attendance on record for this event. The Canadians had a great time both on and off the race course. There are some helmut cam and crash videos on YouTube and some vacation/racing pictures on flickr.

Prepping for the 2012 Racing Season posted Jan 25, 2012 11:31 AM by CPPRA Administrator [updated Jan 25, 2012 11:44 AM]

A couple of notes from your president as we start thinking about the 2012 racing season.

- The website has been updated for 2012.
- Edmonton and Regina have yet to decide on their contest dates. Edmonton will be avoiding a September date like the plague.
- Your president has been a bit lax on adding the AGM minutes and year-end financial statements; they will be posted soon.

- The CPPRA discussion forum was deleted by the service provider due to lack of use. Everyone must have ignored those "We Miss You" emails.
- The Phoenix Classic contest will see a larger than normal Canadian Invasion happening in Feb 2012.

I have been working with Tom Strom to try and coordinate our racing schedule with other areas in the NMPRA. Here is a list of contests received from Tom. If you're looking to do more racing this season, try to attend some of these. It would a lot of fun to have a large Canadian presence at other contests. We may see some of our friends from down south attending some of our District 3 contests as well. This may be a really great season of racing!
